An Extreme View.

NEW YORK, July 15.—About five hundred people gathered at a meeting held at Cooper Square to-night under the auspices of District assembly No. 49 Knights of Labor to denounce the action of Carnegie, Pinkerton and Frick and endorse the action of the Homestead workmen. George Francis Train was among those present. A long series of resolutions were adopted which among other things demand that congress should regard the Pinkertons as pirates and that they with their employers H. C. Frick and William and Robert Pinkerton should be indicted, tried and ... and executed as national malefactors and also demanding that the United States government shall withhold its patronage from ... goods produced by the Carnegie firm.

A Mysterious Affair.

SEDALIA, Mo., July 15.—The holdup of the Missouri Kansas and Texas train at Adair I. T., last night has brought out some interesting facts. For a month past the officials of the Pacific Express company have been anticipating an attack from the remnant of the notorious Dalton gang but exactly at what point it would be made was all surmise. In anticipation however armed guards have accompanied the messengers on each trip. Yesterday the officials learned definitely that train No. 2 would be attacked at Adair and preparations were made to give the outlaws a reception. Captain Kenney the chief of the M. K. & T. secret service with eight picked men was the force selected to thwart the robbers. Kenney and his assistants took passage in the smoking car on train No. 2 yesterday afternoon for Adair, where the train was due at 9.45. Three-quarters of an hour prior to that hour several strange masked men droved into Adair in a ... depot and alighted. An instant later all entered the building and with the aid of Winchesters pointed in the face of the station agent, ransacked the office of the station of all its money and valuables. Having accomplished this, the robbers sat down in the station and coolly awaited the arrival of train No. 2. The story of their ... attack on the express car ... tached to this train has already been told. The express officials here are wholly at a loss to explain the poor showing made by Captain Kenney and his men. They were armed thoroughly for the anticipated encounter and the utmost disgust is expressed that all the robbers escaped without a scratch, while three of the officer's party and two outsiders were wounded. Local agent Moreman denies that the robbers got a large sum of money, but others positively assert that the estimate of between $50,000 and $15,000 is correct. Information from Adair to-night is to the effect that none of the robbers have been arrested, but a large ... is hot on the trail, and is expected to overtake fugitives before morning.

Cyrus W. Field's Burial.

BARRINGTON, Mass., July 15.—The body of Cyrus W. Field reached Stockbridge at 1.30 this afternoon. It was met at the station by ... and friends, and taken at once to the historical Congregational church where his father, David Dudley Field, was rector for many years. Here the body was met by Rev. Messrs. Bottome and Farr, ... and the Congregational burial services were ... with. The choir ... "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Nearer My God to Thee," ... short prayer was then offered by the Rev. Mr. Farr. The body was then taken to the Field plot in Stockbridge cemetery. Two stops were made between the church and the cemetery. While the funeral procession of twenty-five carriages drove to the church and the body was being carried to the cemetery, the chimes ... to the town by David Dudley Field were tolled. At the entrance to the cemetery the body was met by the Rev. Mr. Bottome and taken to the burial plot where the Episcopal service was conducted. The grave was beside that of his wife, who was buried April 30. Her grave was decorated with cut flowers.

A ... Exile.

OMAHA, July 15.—News has just been received here of the escape from Siberia of Solomon Gerber, a former resident of Omaha, who was exiled to Siberia when on a visit to his native country, R... Poland. Gerber left Poland six years ago and coming to America located in Omaha, where he lived about four years. He took out first naturalization papers but not second, made considerable money peddling and went back to Poland on a visit, was arrested by emissaries of the czar, his property confiscated and himself exiled. The United States government was involved, but could do nothing as Gerber was not a citizen. The letter received was from Gerber's son. Gerber is now on the way to America.

Gold Shipments Stopped.

NEW YORK, July 15.—It was expected yesterday that the foreign houses who have been shipping gold to Europe for some time would take about $2,000,000 to send out on to-morrow's steamer. After the publication of the statements in regard to the decision of several banks to refuse to accede to requests to pay gold certificates for checks drawn against sales of sterling, all the houses but one suspended their preparation to ship gold and at half past one the only house which intended to ship thought it was best not to stand alone in continuing the export movement. The fact that a Broad street banking house supplied a large amount of sixty-day bills to these bankers may have obviated the necessity of their making gold remittances. At the sub-treasury it is stated that about one-half of the gold exported within the last ten days has been paid out in exchange for legal tenders and treasury notes.

Waterspout at Canon City.

CANON CITY, July 15. A waterspout occurred in Grape Creek canon above this city to-day which was followed by a heavy rain. The torrent of water rushed down the Arkansas river through Canon City with great force, tearing away the Santa Fe railroad and 300 feet of track, bridge and the county wagon bridge. Immense damage was done to gardens and growing fruit crops in the city and suburbs. Very little can be learned as to the damage done between here and Pueblo but it is thought to be great. Florence Colo. reports their wagon bridge gone. The electric light and water works plant in this city are useless to-night but will be in working order to-morrow.

LAW AND ORDER.

The Riotous Scenes at Coeur D'Alene All Over.

ARRESTING THE STRIKERS

The Officers of the Union are ... Non Union Men at Work in the Mines Again. The Military in Possession.

WALLACE, Idaho, July 15.—... were ... load ... with the ... union men who were recently sent out of the county returned ... to-day. They were escorted by a special train loaded with regular troops. The trip to Wardner was uneventful. General Carlin had 400 troops drawn up around Bunker Hill ... and the railroad depot. The strictest martial law was enforced and there was not the slightest sign of disturbance while the non-union men were being unloaded. The returning non-union men were armed with Winchesters. At the station they gave up their rifles and marched unarmed to their destination. The men who were escorted up to the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines one and one half miles up the gulch, through the camp of Wardner were highly guarded. General Carlin issued the proclamation calling upon all the members of the miners' union to surrender. He later issued another order commanding all the strikers to be arrested wherever found and disarmed and imprisoned. He also despatched searching squads to Fourth of July canon to hunt for dead bodies. He thinks that the men who were killed were thrown into the river.

When the arrival of the troops became known, the last twenty men of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine force who did not surrender ... men of the mine, had taken to the brush, armed, and had been in hiding ever since came in. They were greatly exhausted. The troops found them fortified in the mine. They were relieved by a company of soldiers who permitted them to rest and sleep. The entire working force of the mine will pick up ... stations in the mine. At 4 o'clock the troops began scouring Wardner, bringing in union men and placing them in confinement in the guard house at the camp on the ball grounds. Fred E. Dean secretary of the union, was among the first, arrested. President O'Brien was another. At Wallace also, it is reported arrests are being made.

The Coeur d'Alene is virtually in the hands of the military. Unless the union men commit some act of violence soon the time for such conduct will be past. The men at the mine will be supplied with Winchesters by the owners to protect the property.

Two railroad bridges near Mullane were blown up last night and with them several telegraph poles. The strikers also pulled down a number of poles, thus shutting off communication by that route for a time. The Gem and Granite mines are all right. The rumor that the Granite mine had been blown up probably started from the report of the explosion when the bridges were destroyed. The military investment of all the town is complete. No one is allowed to go out without a pass. It is probable that many of the union miners will be arrested to-morrow.

Storm in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, July 15.—A terrific storm of rain and wind passed over this city this afternoon. Several persons were injured, but only one seriously as far as known. W. E. Ward, of the Ward Iron works at No. 391 Central avenue, was struck on the head by a brick falling from the top of a building. He was removed to an hospital, where an examination showed that his skull was fractured. The roof of the Veterinary hospital on Main street was blown across the thoroughfare, crashing into the Banner brewery and causing some damage to that building. The damage to property throughout the city is estimated at $25,000.

A Fruitless Investigation.

CHICAGO, July 15.—The three members of the interstate commerce commission, who have been endeavoring ... to induce some stubborn railroad freight managers and agents to give them some information, will leave Chicago to-morrow and will wend their way to Omaha. They are due in Omaha Monday evening, but if they get no more satisfaction there than they have gleaned here, their mission will have been fruitless. Many railroad men have been on the rack in the last few days but they have declined to surrender, and thus the commission's labors have ended in just one thing—nothing.

A Summer Hotel Burned.

PITTSBURG, July 15.—The summer hotel, restaurant and garden, together with the power house and hoisting machinery at the head of the Penn incline plane, which extends from Sixteenth street over the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, 1050 feet at an incline of thirty-five feet, to the top of the high bluff to the top of Union station, was entirely destroyed by fire this afternoon. Loss about $15,000. The property destroyed belongs to the Penn Incline Railway company.

Killed While Committing a Burglary.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 15.—Ten tramps broke into a Delaware and Hudson car and fitted themselves with shoes. Watchman Mills came upon them and fired into the crowd, wounding two of the men so badly that they may die. The injured men say they are iron workers and give the names of Wittemeyer and Boss.

... at Great Earnings.

NEW YORK, July 15. Railroad gross earnings as reported to Bradstreets aggregated $39,140,000 in June, 8 per cent. more than in that month a year ago. The gain in May this year over last was less than 3 per cent. and an April less than 4 per cent., so that the past month is seen to have brought a distinct improvement, due for the larger part to granger and certain railways. For six months total gross earnings were $.. ,000, also about 8 per cent. more than in the first half of 1891. During which period the increase over six months of 1890 was less than 5 per cent.

The Mining Congress Adjourns.

HELENA, Mont., July 15.—The mining congress got through its business to-day and adjourned to meet in Salt Lake City in December. The entire day was spent in discussing the resolutions. There was no discussion on the question of free coinage, but there was a difference of opinion as to the means of getting it. The minority report demanding legislation that places silver in its old position as a circulating medium and maintains it on a parity with gold was defeated without a division. The report of the committee including the supplementary resolutions was then adopted by a vote of 24 to ... The resolutions adopted include those calling for independent action by silver states in the electoral college. A telegram was sent the president of the senate petitioning that body to defeat the free lead ore bill.

CRIPPLE CREEK

Budget of Telegraphic News from the Regular Correspondent

Special to THE GAZETTE.

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 15.—A very satisfactory feature of the last few days is the resumption of shipping by the Anaconda from which a considerable shipment of ore was made this morning.

A strike of importance has occurred on the Miami lode on Mineral hill. Unselected ore from this claim on being ground and crushed has revealed the presence of considerable quantities of free gold.

One half interest in the Copper Queen on ... has been purchased by Messrs. John Fisher and T. W. Hartly of Telluride. The dump on this property is of a vivid green, almost unique in the camp.

The Trail mine will ship a car load on Wednesday. Also the Victor on Bull mountain.

Two miners arrived in camp this morning in a ... and excited condition. They stated that while at work on the shaft of the ... lode on Bull mountain a ... body of men, exceeding twenty, forced them off their claim under threats of personal violence and warned them from the camp. They added that the aggressors tore down their windlass and behaved outrageously. Further particulars have not been obtained.

The reported consolidation of the Ana ... group, which may now be placed beyond doubt, has given a decided briskness to mining matters and the town generally. The effect is already felt.

The connection between the shaft and tunnel of the Blue Bell mine has now been effected so that the mine can now be properly worked and the water allowed to escape from the shaft.

The Legal Tender will ship within a few weeks.

Fifteen thousand pounds of ore were shipped from the Victor mine yesterday.

The Trail lode is one of the Arequa Mining company's property.

Bollinger, the universally respected editor of The Daily Miner, for his untiring efforts in the direction of good government and civic welfare of the two towns.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Wild throws by Clarkson, Zimmer and Childs gave the Washingtons two unearned runs in the fourth inning to-day, which were sufficient to win the game. Both Clarkson and Killen did good work, the latter, however, received faultless support. The decisions of Umpire Mitchell on balls and strikes were palpably bad, the visitors getting the worst of it on all occasions. REVIEW OF TRADE.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Commercial Summary

BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

The ... Troubles Are Rather Beneficial Than Otherwise. Another Year of Immense Crops Would be Disastrous.

NEW YORK, July 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will say:

In all directions the business outlook is fairly encouraging. The crop report is much more favorable than was expected; the great labor troubles seem to not affect business unfavorably but even help it for the present and ... new small prospects of any legislation by congress that is likely to disturb business in any department.

Crop reports promise results not equal to last year's which would be disastrous but beyond expectations. With the decrease of only 6 per cent. the wheat yield would be far beyond the quantity consumed and exported in any year except the last and nearly equal to last year's consumption and exports. The price dropped below 84 cents but has since been stronger. Western receipts are large, 1,800,000 bushels in three days and exports 77,000 in the same time but the quantity carried over from last year is about 60,000,000 bushels. Corn acreage shows a decrease of 4.4 per cent. in condition 11.7 per cent. but since July 1 copious rains have greatly improved the prospect and the price has dropped 1¾ cents for the week. Oats too have declined 2 cents, while hog products are stronger, pork 25 cents per barrel, and coffee and oil unchanged. The cotton report shows ... year and on any estimate of acreage the yield with the surplus still in sight will more than meet all demands for the year. The price for the past week has not changed, though sales have been 618,000 bales.

Boston reports good trade, with boots and shoes particularly active and many demands for quick delivery. Leather is firm and higher and the factories are busy. Trade in dry goods is increasing with numerous western orders, and manufacturers are ... freely in wool, sales being 5,300,000 pounds. At Philadelphia there are more inquiries for manufactured iron. Wool is firm, with manufacturers anticipating a heavy output of goods. At Baltimore exports of cattle are large and manufacturers make favorable reports, the packers especially realizing large profits. Window glass is fairly active at Pittsburg, but the iron mills generally are closed. Some improvement is seen in groceries at Cincinnati and at Cleveland dry goods, hardware, groceries, clothing and cloaks are active and trade is fair in other lines. Business is good for the ... at Detroit with crop prospects favorable.

At Chicago business is larger than a year ago in dry goods, as large in clothing and shoes and collections are better, while crop prospects are excellent and business ... ing. Decided improvement is ... at Milwaukee and trade is good, with fine crop prospects at St. Paul. At Omaha in all lines trade is larger than a year ago. ... is strong at St. Louis. At Louisville trade is fairly satisfactory, but not much improved at Memphis, quiet at Montgomery, and good at Atlanta, ... the unfavorable weather, which ... done some damage to crops. At noon the market was dull and steady, with prices a shade better than the opening. FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The senate to-day adopted final conference reports on the army, navy and legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bills and ... ted to a house resolution extending existing appropriations for objects not yet ... until July 30. ... the ... bill with amendments. Mr. Washburn of Minnesota, ... the ... and ... appropriation bills and by other methods warmly opposed and defeated a motion to adjourn over till Monday and gave notice that he should call up his anti option bill to-morrow.

Before the senate adjourned, however Mr. Hale gave notice that he would call up the deficiency bill which has a right of way to-morrow and should give way to senators who wished to take up unopposed bills from the calendar until 2 o'clock. This will probably prevent the anti-option bill being taken up to-morrow. The resolution providing for the Homestead investigation was not called up during the day.

HOUSE.

The consideration of the sundry civil bill occupied the attention of the house to-day, the World's Fair appropriation of $5,000,000 being the subject under discussion. Mr. Burrows of Illinois, Mr. Pendleton (Dem.) West Virginia and Mr. A. Taylor (Rep.) of Illinois made brief speeches in support of the proposition, Mr. McCreary of Kentucky, Mr. Little of New York and Mr. Wheeler (Dem.) of Alabama, opposed it. It was agreed that a vote should be taken on the bill at 1 o'clock on Tuesday next. A resolution was passed calling on the postmaster general for information regarding the letting of mail contracts to railroads since March 1889. The conference report on the army appropriation bill was also agreed to.

The house took a recess until 8 o'clock for pension business.

COLORADO COLLEGE SUMMER SCHOOL.

It is highly gratifying to know that the attendance of students as well as the public interest in this worthy enterprise is daily increasing. Mr. Cannon of the Denver High school, of high reputation, began his work in geology on Wednesday, the 13th, and the class gains daily in number and interest. Professor Howe of Denver, also well known, begins his course in [illegible] on Saturday. The work goes bravely on.

Fremont deserves credit for the quiet and orderly [illegible] With an energetic city government the sanitary rules of the camp will be well attended to, especially with a physician as mayor.

The benevolence of the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce has secured an extension of the time of the Knights Templar rates that will be of great advantage to the whole state. Mr. [illegible] and Mr. Buckman [illegible] have great credit for their untiring effort.

The lecture of Prof. [illegible] Thursday evening, at the Presbyterian church, was in the course of the Summer school, was one of the best and most interesting. His subject was "Science and the Senses," which he handled like a master, and it [illegible] [illegible] illustrated by the use of [illegible] and other aids to the understanding of the difficult subject of light.

Mr. B. Clark Wheeler will run as a silver candidate for congress. No one [illegible] the loyalty to silver of either of the two gentlemen, one of whom will probably be elected as the Republican candidate, and Mr. Wheeler's [illegible] act of throwing himself into an [illegible] breach will hardly [illegible] the anticipated [illegible].

More Colorado Springs people are spending the summer here than in any previous [illegible] The time has [illegible] when they could find cooler retreats and better opportunities for enjoyment in other places, for no other place has the Colorado climate in connection with a Casino club [illegible] canons, lakes, shade trees, [illegible] grounds and other delights as Colorado Springs has [illegible].

The papers who cried down the Sherman law as a fraud which did silver more harm than good are now bitterly [illegible] its proposed repeal. It is a question whether Mr. Sherman did not introduce his new bill repealing the old one, just to bring out this wail, and make the men who had attacked it before [illegible] it was a Republican [illegible] admit that it was a benefit to silver.

The H[illegible] strikers are showing a wonderful regard for law and order now that the militia is present, yet there is [illegible] to fear an outbreak if the owners of the mills take such action as will [illegible] the strikers, such as bringing in a new force of workmen, or another lot of Pinkertons. While they have the right to do with their property as they wish, it may not be expedient to hasten the exercise of the right and it is to be hoped that they will not precipitate another outbreak which may be attended with fatal consequences, as many would undoubtedly be killed on both [illegible].

Chicago now wants the Sunday closing feature of the World's Fair appropriation removed. While the Chicago commission should have jurisdiction over the grounds, we think that if the government is to help pay the bills, it certainly has some right to direct the management of affairs. Opinion is divided as to the Sunday question, but very few will uphold the Chicago papers in their violent abuse of the senate, because a majority of that body hold views which differ from the Chicago standard. In any event, the managers of the Exposition should not allow it to be crippled by refusing to accept the $5,000,000 voted by the senate.

The Duty of a Newspaper.

Harper's Weekly.

We trust that in this campaign The World will maintain the distinction which it has justly won of presenting a truthful picture of the contest on both sides. The World supports Mr. Cleveland, but there is no reason that it [illegible] campaign as [illegible] it should deny enthusiasm to the [illegible] meetings, nor caricature the [illegible] speakers and speeches. Finally, to judge from the papers which support one or the other side, there is but one side, and the result was a foregone conclusion from the beginning.

The reader of the weekly edition of the London Times during the present exciting campaign in England will need no other paper to furnish him with a fair picture of its progress. Every morning he will find the chief speeches on both sides accurately reported, with the most truthful accounts of the size and spirit of the meetings. The Times is not friendly to Mr. Gladstone, but it will open its columns to all that he says, and neither belittle nor satirize his meetings. The feeling of the crowds and their reception of G. matters will be photographed, so that the reader will know that he understands the situation.

This is the function of a great newspaper. This is to be a mirror of the times. Whatever the editorial sympathies of a paper may be, if it permits them to distort and misrepresent the news, it abuses its trust. Yet in [illegible] of a political campaign how many [illegible] guilty of that abuse?

New Mown Hay.

Harper's Bazar.

What is there in the fragrance of new-mown hay this early [illegible] in the occult [illegible] almost all other perfumes? Is it that [illegible] of imperishable vitality, the earth-mother's strength and enfolding love, [illegible] in [illegible] the [illegible] at long suffering, sturdy, multitudinous, beautiful [illegible] the hills, and all up to the very edge of the [illegible] sides, and springs up in the ruts, and [illegible] in soft thick coverlets on the graves of our dead? Nothing [illegible] the tired eye, so springs back under the tired foot. When the vagrant impulse awakens in our breasts, the nomad instinct stirs, we are fain to go where the grasses wave and the old trees lean lovingly over them.

The wearied man of business hard pressed with the routine of the counting room, becomes a boy once more, if he can but secure a holiday in the time of making hay. He goes into the field with buoyant step, and you hear his voice ringing in a joyous shout as he counts the rolling swaths.

How children love to tumble in the hay, and how defrauded they are of one of childhood's chief delights if they never know the glory of riding homeward to the barn on top of the great billowy load!

To some of us older people the new-mown hay brings back the days of the war the four vivid, thrilling years when the land was full of marching men of banners, drums and bugles—when every day had its fierce excitements its exaltations and its depressions. To think how mothers and wives and sweethearts then watched the papers in the summer—for the hardest battles were fought not when wintry rigors bound the earth, but when the birds sang, the lilies bloomed, the apples ripened apace, and on far northern uplands the farmers made hay.

To one household, perched in a crag of the mountains, there arrived a great triumph in one of those summers. Their Harry had been made a brigadier—the boy had risen step by step from the ranks, so brave, so manful, was the stuff in him. Father came in from the hay field with the letter that told of it in his hand.

The very young do not understand this trick of association. They have yet to grow up to the knowledge that souls remain young, though bodies change and take on new impressions with the years. They perceive an old man, an old woman, and sometimes smile at the sentiment which seems to them to linger unfitly in these withered personalities. Not so. Youth is crude. Sentiment does not reach its full flower till people have the rich sweetness of the new-mown hay.

RELIGIOUS WORLD.

Notes and Comments by the Rev. Jas. B. Green, D. D.

We surrender a considerable part of our column this week to extracts from Rev. Myron Reed's admirable address at the [illegible] convention of Charities and Corrections:

"Much of charity work is work merely for the day. No hope in it, no outcome, no shining future,—it is mending, patching. Clearly, this present society, which compels people to be unfortunate, is not to continue. We are getting tired of taking care of the victims of human neglect and greed. But we must not pass them by, even if we are tired. There are three methods open to the physician: To provide for the sick man relief for the time, anything to stop the pain, and then the slower way,—going back to the cause, and not tinkering at effect. And a wise physician may combine the two, do something, anything, for present relief, and also attend to the cause of trouble. When a man is hungry and asks for food, feed him. But in this world there ought to be no hunger that hurts. There is food enough for the whole family. The fault is in the distribution.

"I find that Jesus worked at effects and at causes. He attended to individual cases of poverty, but he laid down some social laws that, obeyed, there will be no poverty. 'The poor ye have always with you.' If that were a prophecy, which it is not, we have done our best, or worst, to fulfil it.

"Jesus Christ spent a good deal of time with the poor and the sick and the sinned against; but that was by the way. His mighty works are in his sayings, that have in them power to change the face of the earth, power to let the oppressed go free and break every yoke, power to bring in 'the federation of the world the parliament of man.' I do not think that the people about Jesus heard much except the gospel for the day, or saw much except works that were for the day not used. He had compassion on the multitude because they were faint, and he fed them. But that does not justify in an American city a free soup-house. What were called the mighty works of Jesus are trivial as contrasted with his mighty sayings—words let fall here and there. What is the raising of Lazarus to the planting of an energy which in due time will raise a world of men from existence to abundant life? Very gracious is the picture of Christ giving blind Bartimeus the light of the sun and the sight of the grass and the lilies and the faces of the children, and making an abandoned woman feel rich and good and at home in the thought of heaven, so that she did not care any more for poverty or pain or shame. A great work that is, but not the greatest. Work for the individual, remedial, palliative, comforting, was about all that could be done for the world in the first century. The foot of the strong was accurately measured to the neck of the ignorant and the weak. The leaven of the words 'call no man master' was working in the three measures of meal, the church, the state, and society, but too slowly for those generations. Good men could do so little for the world that they said to one another. 'Let it alone. If it will not let us alone, let us bear the grief.'

"The modern lover of men is of the type of David Livingstone. He was no better than the saint of the first century, but he had opportunity. He could do good work in a parish of Scotland, and he did. He was faithful in the work for a day. David Livingstone attended to the individual African; but he had in mind the redemption of African millions, the race, the redemption of one-quarter of the world. He blazed a way, made a path, made a map, did for Africa what Marquette did for Wisconsin, Illinois, and Arkansas made a trail.

"Clearly, we must attend to the day, the common round, the chores of life; but we must conserve time enough to think of all the days. Plainly, I see that the present social state is not what Jesus was looking forward to.

"We cannot do any better than to study, and carefully study, the conduct of the life of Jesus,—how he did the common chores of life, and still looked beyond them and worked a larger thing. He was about his Father's business, and also about his brother's business. He was a good man in camp when the wet fisherman came, having toiled all night and caught nothing. He had a fire ready, and fish cooking, and bread. He did his part.

"He had a fashion of doing a common thing in an uncommon way that dignified the way and known in the break-ing of bread. The [illegible] manner of it was [illegible] the guest [illegible] remembered when the [illegible] was forgotten. He had a great errand to do, but he did not avoid a small duty. He halted on any journey to help. The interruptions seem to have taken most of his time. There is no apparent haste in his conversation with the Samaritan. At that time he had no more important business. He talked and worked for the day, as we do. The mighty need of a sick world did not shut out the need of one sick man or sorry woman. But I can see that Jesus meant to leave some sayings that would work, so that when he came again he would see no bruised men on any road and no shunned woman in any house. He did not propose to come again and find the same old society grinding along, manufacturing the hungry, the sick and in prison, and filling the road with people half dead.

"To Jesus Christ the medicine chest and the ambulance were not permanently to take the place of bread and meat and blankets and wisdom and love. He taught us to pray that our Father's will may done on earth as in heaven. It is impossible to think that he taught us to pray for an impossible thing. Jesus had the vision more sure and clear of Isaiah, the prophet before him, and of Saint John, the prophet after him, of a country where men build houses and inhabit them, and plant vineyards and eat the fruit thereof—a city builded according to the measure of a man's need. Over the gate of the city is written, 'Neither shall there be any more pain.'"

Says the Golden Rule under the heading "Ministers as Arbitrators," Probably an influential precedent has been set in the successful close of the long Durham miners' strike in the north of England. After it had lasted twelve weeks, in the terrible distress of the miners and the great inconvenience of the community, the mine owners and miners came together to receive the good offices of the bishop of Durham, Dr. Westcott, as arbitrator. Each side gave up a part of its demand, and one of the greatest strikes in the world's history was ended. Some thoughtless newspapers scoffed at this affair, alleging that the proper judges in such cases was not clergymen, but men of affairs, practically and intimately acquainted with all the details of the business on which their advice is to have an important influence. That sounds plausible; but such writers forget that trade difficulties arise from the [illegible], ignorance, and selfishness of men. What is needed to settle them is more an appeal to the heart that to the head. Capitalists and laborers are likely to be as well informed in their specialties as an outsider could be, either lay or clerical. They do not need information half so much as sympathy. A clergyman of tact and with the instinct of brotherhood, without discussing the economic questions involved, could settle the majority of strikes simply by inducing each of the combatants to put themselves in the other's place, and see with the wise insight of love the other's needs.

A COLORED POLITICIAN

Edwin P. McCabe Has Acquired Fame and Wealth in Oklahoma.

[Special Correspondence.]

TOPEKA, Kan., July 14.—The organization of a colonization and protection association by the Afro-Americans once more brings into prominence Edwin P. McCabe, who was at one time auditor of the state of Kansas, the only negro who ever held official position in any state in the west. He has been for two years at the head of a colonization society in Oklahoma, and has succeeded in securing homes for several thousand southern negroes in that territory. Three years ago he founded the town of Langston, which differed from other towns in that it was to have no white population. The sale of lots was conducted through McCabe's agents, who were preachers among the negroes in the southern states. He succeeded in disposing of 1,700 lots within the short time of two years at prices ranging from ten to fifty dollars, and in gathering in his town over 700 [illegible]. Establishing the Langston Herald, a weekly paper, he soon had a circulation of more than 6,000, and was thus enabled to reach the people in the south for whom he was working.

Always urging that no negroes should go to Oklahoma unless provided with enough capital to keep them at least one year, he has succeeded in gathering the most intelligent and the most provident, and now boasts that his people are the most prosperous in that territory. He has led in the war against the "Jim Crow" cars in the southern states, which were prepared especially for the negroes. This fight, which was a legal one, was made possible by the liberal contributions which he made before asking for aid from the more wealthy negroes in the north and east.

Recently there have been several meetings of negroes in Topeka, Guthrie and Little Rock for the purpose of formulating plans that would not only aid a wholesale immigration, but at the same time protect those who did not want to leave their old homes in the south. Finally the plans were perfected at Guthrie, the home of McCabe, and the movement has been started that bids fair to exceed in magnitude anything that has yet been inaugurated. The details have not yet been given out, but enough has been learned to know that in addition to finding homes for those who wish to go to Oklahoma the courts will be asked to protect those who remain in the southern states, and if that is not done then a semimilitary organization is to undertake the work, thus forcing interference by the United States government.

McCabe is ambitious and has his mind made up to go to the United States senate whenever Oklahoma is admitted as a state. In addition to his philanthropic views he always keeps in sight the advisability of holding the balance of power in the territory by means of the negro vote, which he now holds and controls. The present year will close with at least 10,000 more negro voters in Oklahoma, brought there through the [illegible] of McCabe, who is regarded as the Moses of this people. The [illegible] legislature, after the territory is admitted as a state by [illegible], will be [illegible] the party in power at that time will be under pledge to make him senator.

This negro leader is one fourth black and well educated. He was born and educated in Rhode Island. He is shrewd in his dealings with both whites and blacks, is always aggressive, but never obnoxiously so. He does not seek the society of whites, nor does he make himself familiar with the blacks. While he feels humiliated over his social standing on account of his black blood, he accepts the verdict rendered by the white race and counts his white blood as nothing. He has one child, a girl, whom he will educate in France.

His office in Guthrie is the most elegant in that pretentious city. He keeps three clerks, all white, one man and two lady stenographers. His correspondence is immense in volume, and nearly all relates to the advancement of his race.

Jones-Butler.

Mr. C. P. Jones of Argentine, Kan., and Miss Pearl R. Butler, were married at the Christian church Thursday evening, July 14, 1892. Miss Maggie Martin played a beautiful wedding march during the time the bridal party were entering and retiring from the church. Mr. Max Kastner and Miss Maggie Shideler were the attendants. The bride and groom both being mutes, Professor Ray of the institute, interpreted the beautiful ceremony which was pronounced by Rev. J. P. Lucas. The ceremonies were novel and interesting throughout.

A Veteran.

Capt. F. D. May, the veteran passenger agent of the United States was a call at the Gazette office yesterday. The captain was for thirty-five years in the employ of the great Pennsylvania railroad and that company has now placed him on its pension rolls, and he spends every summer in Colorado. He has just celebrated his eightieth birthday but is still a most active and genial gentleman. The captain ... an officer in the Mexican war, and has had a life of varied experience. He hopes soon to publish a book of memoirs, telling of the great men of the past whom he has known. The captain learned the printing business in his youth and since the death of Simon Cameron and Walt Whitman, ... to be the oldest printer in the United States. He is going out to the Printers' home in a few days to put his name on the register.

Captain May is just from the east and reports large numbers of people coming to the conclave from Pennsylvania and New York.

All young men are reminded of the service for men only, at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow afternoon at 4:15. Good speakers will be in attendance. The singing will be spirited, and men will find it a pleasant place to spend an hour. Strangers are especially welcome.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE GREATEST EVENT OF THE SEASON.

A New Souvenir Book!

ON account of the large demand for the Illustrated Half-tone Supplements issued in series with the SUNDAY GAZETTE in the summers of 1890 and 1891, it has been decided to issue a portfolio of the fourteen best half-tone plates. This will be entitled

"AROUND PIKE'S PEAK!"

The size of the pages will be 12x17 inches. The paper will be very heavy and of the finest finish. The cover will be blue "India Proof" cardboard, and the book will be bound with blue and pink silk cord. The presswork and ink will be the best, and with the superior paper the fine lines of the plates will be brought out better than ever before. The ink will be in tints green-black, blue black and violet-black, suited to the quality of the pictures. This series will be adapted either for framing or for preservation as a whole, and will make a beautiful present for eastern friends.

The Price of the Portfolio is $1, and the Edition is Positively Limited to One Thousand.

Orders will be filled in order as they are received until the edition is exhausted.
